EUROPA WINS WORLD'S RECORD ON ATLANTIC

SMASHES MARK FOR WESTWARD CROSSING OF SEA

BEATS RECORD OF SISTER SHIP, THE BREMEN, BY 18 MINUTES

BUCKS HEAD WINDS AND AT TIMES HAZE AND FOG

New York, March 25.—(U.P.)—The new North German Lloyd liner Europa, driving her 51,000-ton bulk against headwinds, raced past the Ambrose Channel lightship at 5:45 A. M. today to smash the world's record for westward crossing of the Atlantic.

Beating the record of her sister ship, the Bremen, by 18 minutes, the Europa came into port four days, 17 hours and six minutes after leaving the Cherbourg breakwater.

The crossing not only knocked down the Bremen's October world's record of 4 days, 17 hours and 24 minutes, but bettered the Bremen's maiden westward trip last July, by 36 minutes.

The figures, unofficially computed, are subject to correction when the ship's chronometers are checked and verified.

The Europa passed Sandy Hook at 6:30 A. M., after one of the most thrilling day's runs in the history of ocean greyhounds, in which she not only bucked adverse winds, but, early in the morning, a discouraging haze and fog.

After a series of mishaps had trailed the Europa almost from the time its keel was laid, the vessel finally pulled away from Cherbourg breakwater at its maiden voyage, at 12:30 P. M., EST, Thursday.

In April, 1929, as it was nearing completion in the Hamburg shipyards, fire broke out and burned it to the water's edge. Later it was rebuilt and in February, when starting on its trial trip, the Europa became stuck in the mud and was released with difficulty.

During the first two days of its trans-Atlantic crossing, the Europa bucked strong headwinds and a heavy sea. Sunday the weather moderated but the sea continued heavy.

To equal the Bremen's record time for the crossing, the Europa had to average about 28.444 knots.

The first day's run was 530—(nautical)—miles in 19 hours, 12 minutes, against the Bremen's 288 miles in 10 hours, 40 minutes.

Second day—Europa, 703 miles in 25 hours; Bremen, 687 miles in 25 hours.

Third day—Europa, 701 miles in 25 hours; Bremen, 704 miles in 25 hours.

Fourth day—Europa, 704 miles in 25 hours; Bremen, 705 miles in 25 hours.

Both ships were built under the same specifications for size and speed, but by different designers and shipbuilders.

The Europa is 936 feet long, 101 feet wide, and carried 2,200 passengers and a crew of 975 men.

Decorations of the ship are done in a modern manner, as are those of the Bremen.

The Europa is equipped with a long distance radio telephone by which passengers may talk to shore or other ships, all motorized and radio equipped lifeboats, a special restaurant, travel bureau, shooting gallery, and four libraries, as well as the usual swimming pool and other features of modern liners.

Captain Nicolaus Johnsen of the Europa is the commodore of the fleet, has been in the service of the company for 30 years, and until recently commanded the steamer Columbus.

Actually, the Europa's engines are slightly more powerful than those of the Bremen, but this is nearly offset by the former's deeper draft. Engines in both ships are high pressure steam turbines of latest design.

A description of the Europa's arrival in New York harbor was broadcast over the NBC network and by short wave relay on the continent, from a portable broadcasting set installed on the Europa.

Bremen, Germany, March 25.—Official figures received by wireless from Captain Nicolaus Johnsen of the liner Europa show that on her maiden westward crossing from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose Light, she broke the Bremen's world record by 54 minutes, company officials announced today.

(Figures from New York show the record to be broken by 18 minutes).

Later company officials in Bremen revised their time for the crossing to 4 days, 17 hours and 6 minutes, making it correspond to the United Press log.

REBELLIOUS MINE GROUP EXPELLED

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25.—Twenty sub-officials of the United Mine Workers of America, who rebelled and set up a separate organization, were expelled by the international executive board today.

The action resulted from the international convention held here recently when it was voted that leaders of the insurgency be ordered to appear before the board to show cause why they should not be expelled.

Nameless Tariff Bill Near Its Final Enactment

TRANS-OCEANIC COMMERCE IN BIG BUSINESS ERA

New York, March 25.—(U.P.)—Trans-oceanic commerce has joined the era of big business.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, said last night that a huge corporation, which joins the Zeppelin company of Germany with several large American companies, had been formed for the purpose of furthering trans-oceanic air travel.

Dr. Eckener, who arrived in this country recently as a representative of the German company, said the United Aircraft corporation, the Goodyear corporation and the Aluminum corporation and the Carbide and Carbon company, were the American members of the huge enterprise.

SNOW AND SLEET AND GALE LASH CHICAGO AREA

HEAVY FOG BLANKETS CITY, HAMPERING TRAFFIC, CAUSING ACCIDENTS

SNOW FOLLOWED RAIN LAST NIGHT THAT BECAME SLEET AT INTERVALS

Chicago, March 25.—(U.P.)—The March lion, meek for 24 days this month, roared over the central middle west today accompanied by stinging sleet and a heavy wet snow storm.

From Omaha on the west to Pennsylvania on the east, the lion held sway as winter played its last stand with windy flurries of white. The weather bureau predicted the blizzard would continue all day and well into the night, whipping eastward with the Atlantic sea board feeling its sting tomorrow.

Borne on a 30-mile gale, the blizzard brought virtually all traffic to a halt in the Chicago area. Snow-incrusted windshields caused many minor accidents, street cars and suburban trains were late—hours late in some cases.

Shortly before noon the weather bureau reported 5 inches of snow had fallen and refused to predict how much more was bearing down on the workers who struggled to get to their jobs before noon.

The snow and accidents it caused had taken two lives in Chicago before noon and police had not been able to check the entire area.

Edgar Tompkins was found dead in a snow drift, his neck broken. Joe Thompson, 52, stumbled into a shoe store in the loop and fell dead. Physicians said he died of heart disease aggravated by the storm.

St. Paul, March 25.—Higher temperatures and bright sunshine brought spring weather to Minnesota and the northwest today, dispelling the gloom of predictions that a snow storm over Illinois and Michigan will sweep northward.

Temperatures ranging upward from 30 degrees above zero in central Minnesota to 50 above in other sections of the state and in the Dakotas.

The official predictions, however, called for snow in some sections of Minnesota and generally lower temperatures tomorrow.

AL CAPONE HAS PRECIPITATED VERBAL FEUD IN FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., March 25.—(U.P.)—Al Capone, exiled Chicago beer king, has precipitated a verbal feud between state and federal authorities here.

The Chicago gangster chief will not be permitted to remain in Florida, according to Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, despite a temporary federal injunction restraining sheriffs from molesting him should he decide to live at his Starr Island estate near here.

The governor added he was prepared to "use whatever force is necessary to accomplish the purpose, even to the use of state militia."

Shortly afterwards, W. F. Fox, U. S. marshal, who probably will be designated to serve the injunction papers, promised to protect Capone from the governor's threats.

"Judge Ritter's order will stand against all the fuming of Gov. Carlton," he said.

VREELAND TRIAL SET FOR MARCH 31

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Trial of George Vreeland, one of three suspects in the Payne Avenue State Bank robbery on March 17, today was set for March 31 by Judge Carleton F. McNally.

When arraigned he pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging bank robbery under which, if convicted, the men would get life terms.

William Keller and Joseph Conroy, the two other suspects, pleaded not guilty Monday and their trials also were set for March 31.

Nomination of Floyd B. Olson for Governor By Farm-Labor Party, Forecast Freely Made

RAMSEY COUNTY CONVENTION IN FIRST ACTION

COUNTY ORGANIZATION UNANIMOUSLY INSTRUCTS DELEGATES TO SUPPORT OLSON

REP. FRANK T. STARKEY VERY OPTIMISTIC OVER OLSON'S CHANCES

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Nomination of Floyd B. Olson, Hennepin county attorney, for governor, was predicted freely today after the Ramsey county convention of the farmer-labor party.

The county organization unanimously instructed its delegates to the state convention to support Olson. This action, it was said, assures the county attorney of the support of more than half of the county delegates at the state caucus Thursday and Friday.

Representative Frank T. Starkey, chairman of the Ramsey county group predicted a sweeping victory for Olson over the republican nominee to be selected from several candidates. Starkey has attended several county conventions and expressed confidence that delegates from all sections of the state will be instructed to support Olson.

"The republican party has fooled the people of the northwest for the last time," Starkey said. "This is our year. Throughout the entire farmer-labor organization a spirit of optimism is manifest."

The Ramsey county third party leader said the republicans "are divided among themselves and have no outstanding candidate for governor." He referred to the candidacies of four men for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

Starkey said that more than 500 delegates will attend the state farmer-labor convention in St. Paul Thursday and Friday.

U. S. GOVERNMENT COMES TO AID OF ITS INDIAN WARDS

IN ATTEMPT TO KEEP GAUNT INDIAN MODEL FROM DYING IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

LILA JIMMERSON CHARGED WITH SLAYING MRS. CLOTHILDE MARCHAND OF BUFFALO

Court House, Buffalo, N. Y., March 25.—(U.P.)—The United States government today came to the aid of its ward, Lila Jimerson, in an attempt to keep the gaunt Indian model from dying in the electric chair. She is charged with the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand.

United States Attorney Richard H. Templeton took charge of the defense, after he had notified the court that he had received instructions to that effect from Attorney General Mitchell.

When Templeton announced he would take over the defense, District Attorney Guy B. Moore leaped to his feet and objected to what he called "the interference of the U. S. in the case."

Templeton asked for an adjournment until 2 P. M. to prepare his case. The court granted the motion. Federal intervention lends the strangest aspect of all to this strange case that grew out of Indian superstition high up in the hills where, for the Senecas, witches still prowled the border-lines of the Cattaraugus reservation. There the Senecas found their tom-toms at evening in the hope that the great spirit will come to the aid of Lila Jimerson, who to them is the innocent "Red Lila" caught in the meshes of a law they do not attempt to understand.

BURLINGTON IS THE CRUX OF THE NORTHERN MERGER

SEPARATION OF BURLINGTON IS PROVING CHIEF OBSTACLE, SAYS DONNELLY

NOTHING DEFINITE ACHIEVED IN CONFERENCES HELD IN ST. PAUL PAST 2 WEEKS

New York, March 25.—(U.P.)—The separation of the Burlington from the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads is proving the chief obstacle in the merger of the latter two roads, Charles E. Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, said today in commenting upon the merger.

Nothing definite has been achieved in the conferences held in St. Paul in the past two weeks, Donnelly said, adding that many problems remain to be solved before stockholders of the roads and the interstate commerce commission can be satisfied as to the feasibility of the merger plans.

"Regarding the terminals unification provision mentioned by the commission," he continued, "we feel that we may satisfy the commission without any particular difficulty."

In discussing the earnings of Northern Pacific, Donnelly said the February gross was off about $700,000 from the $6,343,840 reported for the same month last year, and that net operating income was off about $440,000 from the $829,699 for the same month of 1929.

Freight and passenger traffic on the Northern Pacific continue well behind a year ago and traffic in the northwest is probably at its lowest level in the last five years, he added. He stated that he expected spring to bring about movements which have been held up during the winter months.

Formal conferences on the merger may be held here this week when Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, and Fredrick W. Williamson, head of the Burlington, come to New York for the Burlington's monthly meeting of directors.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF N. P. IS LOWER IN FEBRUARY

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Net operating income of the Northern Pacific railroad during February declined to $389,380, compared with $829,699 for the same month last year, the monthly report filed today with the Interstate Commerce commission showed.

Railroad operating revenues were given as $5,632,596 for last month and $6,343,840 for February, 1929. The report showed a $440,310 decline in net income and a $711,344 reduction in operating expenses from the second month of 1929.

The operating expenses for last month were listed at $313,777 less than the same period in 1929.

DEFINITE ACTION TO BUILD GREAT LAKES WATERWAY

LAKES-ST. LAWRENCE ROUTE TO SOON SEE CONSTRUCTION WORK STARTED

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY THE CHAIRMAN, A. O. MOREAUX, IN INTERVIEW

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Definite action toward construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway will be taken within a short time, A. O. Moreaux, chairman of the executive committee of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association of Minnesota said today on his return from conferences in Canada, Detroit and Washington.

"The situation was never brighter," he said, "and we feel that there is every reason to believe that within a short time the country will see definite action taken by both the United States and Canada."

The principal obstacles in the way of drafting a treaty between the nations providing for the construction of the seaway has been cleared, Moreaux said.

Certain construction points and the constitutional rights of the Canadian Dominion and of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario as to ownership and control of the St. Lawrence waters have been solved, Moreaux announced.

"Within the past month the two boards of engineers have reached an agreement, and this agreement is now in the hands of Prime Minister McKenzie King. Recent parleys between the prime minister of the Dominion, Premier Ferguson of Ontario and Premier Taschereau of Quebec have resulted in an agreement as to the rights of the provinces and Dominion government."

"This leaves Prime Minister King at the point where he said he would be ready to take up with our government the matter of appointment of treaty commissioners, and according to advice received from Canadian sources, it is entirely probable that he will take action very shortly."

"King is expected to go to the country for re-election this year, and it generally is understood in Canada that the St. Lawrence seaway will be the principal issue in the campaign."

President Hoover, Moreaux said, has given a definite promise that there will be no delay on the American side in the appointment of treaty commissioners, and that everything possible will be done to speed up the drafting.

COUNTLESS FRIENDS TO GREET THOMPSON ON RETURN TO AUSTIN

Austin, Minn., March 25.—(U.P.)—Countless friends today awaited the appearance of Ransom J. (Cy) Thompson, embezzler of millions and good fellow extraordinary who has been paroled from the Minnesota state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Many of Thompson's former associates believed the fallen financial genius will come back to southern Minnesota where he lavishly spent $1,187,000 embezzled from the Hormel Packing company. Several persons in Austin and Leroy were said to be willing to offer Thompson positions.

Stillwater, Minn., March 25.—(U.P.)—Warden J. J. Sullivan of the state penitentiary today declined to discuss the release of R. J. (Cy) Thompson. It was reliably reported, however, that Thompson was released at 2 p. m. yesterday and he left the penitentiary with a brother, H. A. Thompson, Minneapolis.

HELEN TWELVETREES IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Calif., March 25.—(U.P.)—Helen Twelvetrees, motion picture actress today was granted a divorce from Clark Twelvetrees after she told Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron that she spent three years in an unsuccessful attempt to reform him.

EMERGES IN TATTERED AND TORN CONDITION

HAD HECTIC 7 MONTHS' JOURNEY THROUGH THE SENATE

RETURNED TO HOUSE FOR CURSORY EXAMINATION OF AMENDMENTS

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 25.—Emerging, tattered and torn, from a seven months' hectic journey through the senate, the $5,000,000,000 nameless tariff bill embarked today on an even more tortuous path toward final enactment.

It was returned to the house for cursory consideration of the amendments which revised the measure so radically from the version sent to the senate last May.

The democrats behind Rep. John Garner of Texas, minority leader, served notice they would demand the senate amendments be given serious consideration, but there is little or no likelihood their demands will be granted.

The republicans who control the house with an indomitable majority are determined to shift further negotiations into a conference of committees representing each house. Therefore they intend to permit only a vote on a motion to send the measure as a whole to conference, without voting on the debenture farm relief plan, repeal of the flexible tariff provision, or the sugar, lumber, cement and other duties individually.

This means the next remoulding of the bill will be in the hands of those who favor high rates and who are against the debenture, for the present.

The conference committee to present senate probably will be appointed by Vice President Curtis today. It will be composed of Republican Senators Smoot, Utah; Watson, Indiana, and Shortridge, California, and Democratic Senators Simmons, North Carolina, and Harrison, Mississippi. Smoot, Watson and Shortridge are generally regarded as the highest protectionists in the senate.

A committee dominated by men of similar tendencies will be appointed under Rep. Hawley, republican, Oregon, in the house. The democrats will be in a helpless minority and the mid-western republicans will not even be represented on the conference committee.

From this committee, the bill is expected to be brought forth in a few weeks minus the debenture, with a compromise on the flexible feature which will satisfy the democrats, and with an arithmetical adjustment of the rate differences between the house and senate bills.

The fight will then start all over again in the senate with the ultimate fate of the measure somewhat doubtful, and resting on its ability to carry democratic support.

Seven democrats voted for the bill when the senate passed it late yesterday, 53 to 21.

The fact that the bill contained the debenture won support from such outstanding farm bloc leaders as Borah, Idaho, Frazier and Nye, N. D., Capper and Allen, Kansas, and Schall, Minnesota.

These senators and some others will decline to support it when the debenture is dropped as they all believe it will be. Only five republican senators declined to support the measure on the ground the increase in cement, lumber, furniture, seeds and clothing duties would more than offset any advantage the farmer would get from the bill. They were Blaine and LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster and Norbeck, South Dakota, and Norris, Nebraska.

Notice that the vote was not final was given in the closing debate by Borah and McMaster.

"If the debenture is taken out I predict the fight has just begun," said Borah.

The debenture proposes the farmers be issued certificates from the treasury for all farm products exported. These certificates would be equal to half the tariff on the same imported products. The measure has been vigorously opposed by President Hoover.

TRUCK MAN STOPPED AS HE HAD NO PERMIT TO OPERATE

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—The state railroad and warehouse commission today ordered H. J. Tieman, Melrose, to discontinue operating a motor truck freight line between Melrose and St. Cloud because he had no permit.

The commission granted permission to Arthur F. Jauke, Fresno, to operate a freight line from Detroit Lakes to Motley. Jauke already operates between Detroit Lakes and Little Falls and the new line will connect with the established route.

LILA JIMMERSON CHARGED WITH SLAYING MRS. CLOTHILDE MARCHAND OF BUFFALO

Court House, Buffalo, N. Y., March 25.—(U.P.)—The United States government today came to the aid of its ward, Lila Jimerson, in an attempt to keep the gaunt Indian model from dying in the electric chair. She is charged with the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand.

United States Attorney Richard H. Templeton took charge of the defense, after he had notified the court that he had received instructions to that effect from Attorney General Mitchell.

When Templeton announced he would take over the defense, District Attorney Guy E. Moore leaped to his feet and objected to what he called "the interference to the U. S. in the case."

Templeton asked for an adjournment until 2 P. M. to prepare his case. The court granted the motion. Federal intervention lends the strangest aspect of all to this strange case that grew out of Indian superstition high up in the hills where, for the Senecas, witches still prowl the border-lines of the Cattaraugus reservation. There the Senecas found their tom-toms at evening in the hope that the great spirit will come to the aid of Lila Jimerson, who to them is the innocent "Red Lilac" caught in the meshes of a law they do not attempt to understand.

BURLINGTON IS THE CRUX OF THE NORTHERN MERGER

SEPARATION OF BURLINGTON IS PROVING CHIEF OBSTACLE, SAYS DONNELLY

NOTHING DEFINITE ACHIEVED IN CONFERENCES HELD IN ST. PAUL PAST TWO WEEKS

New York, March 25.—(U.P.)—The separation of the Burlington from the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads is proving the chief obstacle in the merger of the latter two roads, Charles E. Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, said today in commenting upon the merger.

Nothing definite has been achieved in the conferences held in St. Paul in the past two weeks, Donnelly said, adding that many problems remain to be solved before stockholders of the roads and the interstate commerce commission can be satisfied as to the feasibility of the merger plans.

"Regarding the terminals unification provision mentioned by the commission," he continued, "we feel that we may satisfy the commission without any particular difficulty."

In discussing the earnings of Northern Pacific, Donnelly said the February gross was off about $700,000 from the $6,343,840 reported for the same month last year, and that net operating income was off about $440,000 from the $829,699 for the same month of 1929.

Freight and passenger traffic on the Northern Pacific continue well behind a year ago and traffic in the northwest is probably at its lowest level in the last five years, he added. He stated that he expected spring to bring about movements which have been held up during the winter months.

Formal conferences on the merger may be held here this week when Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, and Fredrick W. Williamson, head of the Burlington, come to New York for the Burlington's monthly meeting of directors.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF N. P. IS LOWER IN FEBRUARY

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Net operating income of the Northern Pacific railroad during February declined to $389,380, compared with $829,699 for the same month last year, the monthly report filed today with the Interstate Commerce commission showed.

Railroad operating revenues were given as $5,632,596 for last month and $6,343,840 for February, 1929. The report showed a $440,310 decline in net income and a $711,244 reduction in operating expenses from the second month of 1929.

The operating expenses for last month were listed at $313,777 less than the same period in 1929.

DEFINITE ACTION TO BUILD GREAT LAKES WATERWAY

LAKES-ST. LAWRENCE ROUTE TO SOON SEE CONSTRUCTION WORK STARTED

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY THE CHAIRMAN, A. O. MOREAUX, IN INTERVIEW

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—Definite action toward construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway will be taken within a short time, A. O. Moreaux, chairman of the executive committee of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association of Minnesota said today on his return from conferences in Canada, Detroit and Washington.

"The situation was never brighter," he said, "and we feel that there is every reason to believe that within a short time the country will see definite action taken by both the United States and Canada."

The principal obstacles in the way of drafting a treaty between the nations providing for the construction of the seaway have been cleared, Moreaux said.

Certain construction points and the constitutional rights of the Canadian Dominion and of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario as to ownership and control of the St. Lawrence waters have been solved, Moreaux announced.

"Within the past month the two boards of engineers have reached an agreement, and this agreement is now in the hands of Prime Minister McKenzie King. Recent parleys between the prime minister of the Dominion, Premier Ferguson of Ontario and Premier Taschereau of Quebec have resulted in an agreement as to the rights of the provinces and Dominion government."

"This leaves Prime Minister King at the point where he said he would be ready to take up with our government the matter of appointment of treaty commissioners, and according to advice received from Canadian sources, it is entirely probable that he will take action very shortly."

"King is expected to go to the country for re-election this year, and it generally is understood in Canada that the St. Lawrence seaway will be the principal issue in the campaign."

President Hoover, Moreaux said, has given a definite promise that there will be no delay on the American side in the appointment of treaty commissioners, and that everything possible will be done to speed up the drafting.

COUNTLESS FRIENDS TO GREET THOMPSON ON RETURN TO AUSTIN

Austin, Minn., March 25.—(U.P.)—Countless friends today awaited the appearance of Ransome J. (Cy) Thompson, embezzler of millions and good fellow extraordinary who has been paroled from the Minnesota state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Many of Thompson's former associates believed the fallen financial genius will come back to southern Minnesota where he lavishly spent $1,187,000 embezzled from the Hormel Packing company. Several persons in Austin and Leroy were said to be willing to offer Thompson positions.

Stillwater, Minn., March 25.—(U.P.)—Warden J. J. Sullivan of the state penitentiary today declined to discuss the release of R. J. (Cy) Thompson. It was reliably reported, however, that Thompson was released at 2 p. m. yesterday and he left the penitentiary with a brother, H. A. Thompson, Minneapolis.

EMERGES IN TATTERED AND TORN CONDITION

HAD HECTIC 7 MONTHS JOURNEY THROUGH THE SENATE

RETURNED TO HOUSE FOR CURSORY EXAMINATION OF AMENDMENTS

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 25.—Emerging, tattered and torn, from a seven months' hectic journey through the senate, the $5,000,000,000 nameless tariff bill embarked today on an even more tortuous path toward final enactment.

It was returned to the house for cursory consideration of the amendments which revised the measure so radically from the version sent to the senate last May.

The democrats behind Rep. John Garner of Texas, minority leader, served notice they would demand the senate amendments be given serious consideration, but there is little or no likelihood their demands will be granted.

The republicans who control the house with an indomitable majority are determined to shift further negotiations into a conference of committees representing each house. Therefore they intend to permit only a vote on a motion to send the measure as a whole to conference, without voting on the debenture farm relief plan, repeal of the flexible tariff provision, or the sugar, lumber, cement and other duties individually.

This means the next remoulding of the bill will be in the hands of those who favor high rates and who are against the debenture, for the present.

The conference committee to present senate probably will be appointed by Vice President Curtis today. It will be composed of Republican Senators Smoot, Utah; Watson, Indiana; and Shortridge, California, and Democratic Senators Simmons, North Carolina; and Harrison, Mississippi. Speed, Watson and Shortridge are generally regarded as the highest protectionists in the senate.

A committee dominated by men of similar tendencies will be appointed under Rep. Hawley, republican, Oregon, in the house. The democrats will be in a helpless minority and the mid-western republicans will not even be represented on the conference committee.

From this committee, the bill is expected to be brought forth in a few weeks minus the debenture, with a compromise on the flexible feature which will satisfy the democrats, and with an arithmetical adjustment of the rate differentials between the house and senate bills.

The fight will then start all over again in the senate with the ultimate fate of the measure somewhat doubtful, and resting on its ability to carry democratic support.

Seven democrats voted for the bill when the senate passed it late yesterday, 53 to 21.

The fact that the bill contained the debenture won support from such outstanding farm bloc leaders as Borah, Idaho, Frazier and Nye, N. D., Capper and Allen, Kansas, and Schall, Minnesota.

These senators and some others will decline to support it when the debenture is dropped as they all believe it will be. Only five republican senators declined to support the measure on the ground the increase in cement, lumber, furniture, seeds and clothing duties would more than offset any advantage the farmer would get from the bill. They were Blaine and LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster and Norbeck, South Dakota, and Norris, Nebraska.

Notice that the vote was not final was given in the closing debate by Borah and McMaster.

"If the debenture is taken out I predict the fight has just begun," said Borah.

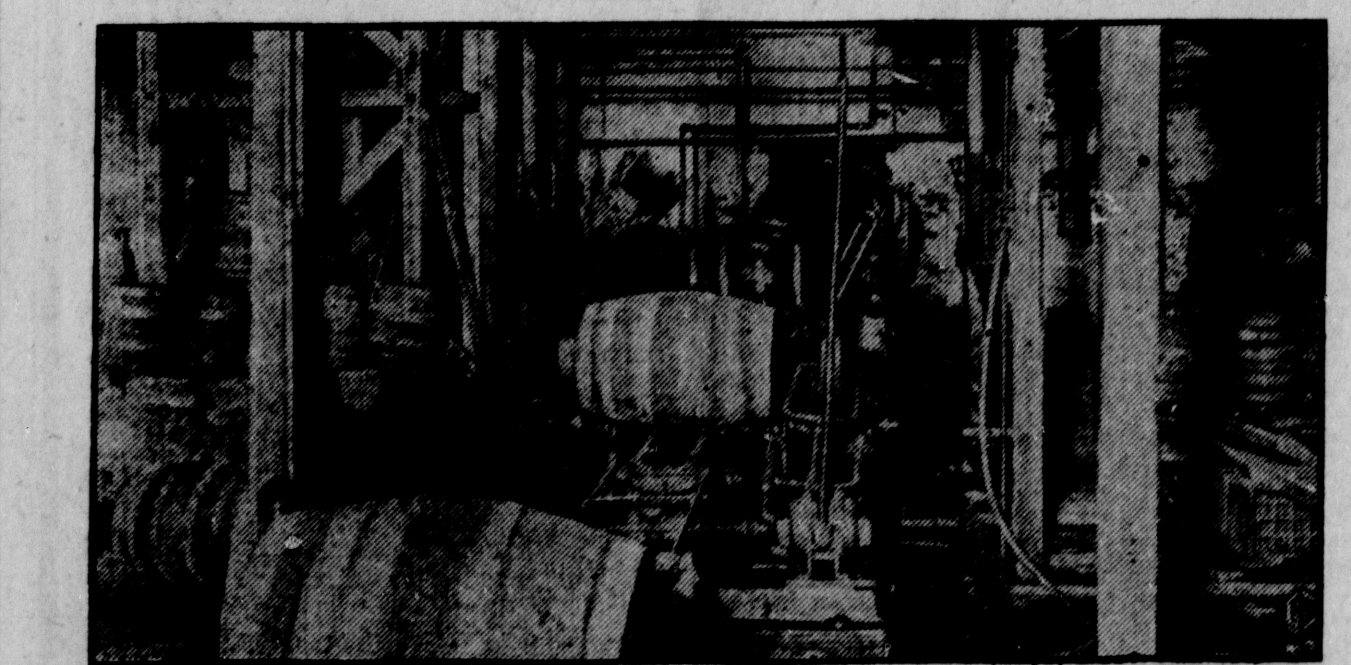

The debenture proposes the farmers be issued certificates from the treasury for all farm products exported. These certificates would be equal to half the tariff on the same imported products. The measure has been vigorously opposed by President Hoover.

TRUCK MAN STOPPED AS HE HAD NO PERMIT TO OPERATE

St. Paul, March 25.—(U.P.)—The state railroad and warehouse commission today ordered H. J. Tieman, Melrose, to discontinue operating a motor truck freight line between Melrose and St. Cloud because he had no permit.

The commission granted permission to Arthur F. Jauke, Fresno, to operate a freight line from Detroit Lakes to Motley. Jauke already operates between Detroit Lakes and Little Falls and the new line will connect with the established route.

TRADE WEEK GIVES POOR MAN CHANCE TO RE-CLOTHE SELF

Brainerd Trade Week became a god-send to one Crow Wing county resident today.

Mr. — had ten dollars to replenish his worn out clothing. His toes were coming out of his stockings and shoes. His trousers were patched, his hat tattered, and his coat threadbare.

The man made the round of Brainerd stores comparing the numbers in the windows with the one on his Brainerd Dispatch Spring Trade Week Special. In a clothing store in the city he saw his number. It entitled him to merchandise to the value of $5. With the $10 in his pockets, the $5 allowed him in merchandise and the goodwill of the merchant he received a new outfit of clothing.

Trade Week continued in its second day today and with a warm sun shining this afternoon the first rush was noticed, many of the shoppers being from out of the city.

TRADE WEEK GIVES
POOR MAN CHANCE TO RE-CLOTHE SELF

Brainerd Trade Week became a god-send to one Crow Wing county resident today.

Mr. — had ten dollars to replenish his worn out clothing. His toes were coming out of his stockings and shoes. His trousers were patched, his hat tattered, and his coat threadbare.

The man made the round of Brainerd stores comparing the numbers in the windows with the one on his Brainerd Dispatch Spring Trade Week Special. In a clothing store in the city he saw his number. It entitled him to merchandise to the value of $5. With the $10 in his pockets, the $5 allowed him in merchandise and the goodwill of the merchant he received a new outfit of clothing.

Trade Week continued in its second day today and with a warm sun shining this afternoon the first rush was noticed, many of the shoppers being from out of the city.

A complimentary supper is being given this evening at the Congregational church in honor of Dr. Percy T. Watson who has returned from China where he has been conducting a hospital.

Following the supper, Dr. Watson will speak at the church, with China as his subject. He spoke this noon at the Rotary club dinner.

HENRY FORD ON PROHIBITION

U. S. TO CHOOSE BETWEEN DRINK AND POVERTY; PROHIBITION AND PROSPERITY

Philadelphia, March 25.—(U.P.)—The United States must choose between drink and poverty on one hand and prohibition and prosperity on the other, Henry Ford said in an interview with Samuel Crowther in the April issue of the Ladies' Home Journal.

Ford revealed that not only is he enforcing prohibition in his organization in the United States but also he is keeping his foreign organization on a bone dry basis.

"Our present industrial system cannot work with liquor," Ford said. "We must choose between drink and poverty on the one hand and prohibition and prosperity on the other. There is no middle round."

Ford said that those who would destroy the prosperity of the people are staging a very active campaign to bring back liquor, using the present business recession to the best advantage for their purpose.

"Although today we are just as prosperous as we were last year, we are not quite so prosperous as we were two years ago," Ford said. "This recession has been taken advantage of by those who would destroy the prosperity of the people once and for all to stage a very active campaign to end prohibition and bring back liquor."

"We have it in our hands to determine whether we shall continue to slide back or whether we shall stop where we are and go forward again. Many of the men who should have been leading toward a greater and more widely distributed prosperity took their minds off their real work and turned to gambling in the stock market. Many people following these leaders also took to gambling."

"We have it in our hands to determine whether we shall continue to slide back or whether we shall stop where we are and go forward again. Many of the men who should have been leading toward a greater and more widely distributed prosperity took their minds off their real work and turned to gambling in the stock market. Many people following these leaders also took to gambling."

Recently the editor of the Toronto Globe responded to a questionnaire regarding the workings of the government control liquor system in Ontario. The questions were incisive. The replies were unequivocal. Here they are:

Reply: No.

2. Does government control decrease or increase the consumption of liquor?

Reply: Liquor consumption has doubled in Ontario in two years.

3. Does government control decrease or increase number of drunken drivers of automobiles?

Reply: Drunken drivers have multiplied by ten, while cars doubled.

4. Have deaths from accidents due to drunken drivers increased under government control?

Reply: Yes, enormously.

5. Have industrial accidents decreased under government control?

Reply: No. Increasing 7 per cent faster than pay rolls.

6. Has government control eliminated the bootlegger?

Reply: Large bootlegger eliminated, but small bootlegger multiplied.

7. Has government control proved any benefit to the young people?

Reply: No.

These questions and answers constitute a statement by a trained observer which anyone hesitating as to the relative merits of prohibition and government control would do well to study.

Rear Light or Mirror on All Vehicles

ALTHOUGH ample publicity has been given to the matter, some owners of wagons and buggies apparently have not yet learned that the 1929 legislature amended the traffic law so as to require a tail light or reflector on all horse drawn vehicles using the streets or highways at night, says a bulletin from the State Highway department. This lamp or reflector must show a red or yellow light visible at least 200 feet under normal atmospheric conditions.

Dark vehicles are almost invisible at night, especially when there are brightly lighted cars coming from the other direction. Several moderately priced reflectors which comply with the law are on the market, and if properly fastened on the rear of the vehicle, they require no further attention except to see that they are kept clean.

Motor vehicles must have a tail light, but many car owners also use a reflector as added protection in case the bulb burns out or the driver forgets to turn on his parking lights.

Approach of Vacation Season

APPROACH of the vacation season is emphasized by announcement by E. E. Nelson, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific, that arrangements have been completed for opening of the Yellowstone National Park employment office at the Northern Pacific Railway company building at St. Paul on April 15. E. V. Black, representing the park transportation company, the hotels and camps, will have charge of the office again this year.

College students, cooks, waitresses and other persons with necessary qualifications will be employed for the summer vacation period in the park. In the service forces will be many college students who find this profitable and interesting summer employment.

North Dakota Seed Corn for Soviet Russia

THE Northern Pacific a few days ago carried a carload of seed corn from Bismarck, N. D., consigned to points in Soviet Russia. This seed corn was selected after agricultural authorities of Russia had visited in the vicinity of Bismarck to make observations. This type of corn will be used for growing in central Russia where the climate and seasons correspond to those of North Dakota.

The shipper at Bismarck was required to follow instructions calling for sewing one sack of seed within another, each package to be stencilled with the variety name, grade, Soviet import number and order number, as well as serial number for each sack. The whole shipment was accompanied by 22 separate documents.

MORE rubber will be used in 1930 than in 1929 but less will be produced, according to a forecast of the rubber division of the U. S. Department of Commerce. This can mean only one thing, say leaders in the rubber tire industry—higher prices for tires in the future. Crude rubber is reported now selling below the cost of production.

FOUR-H club members of Mower, Goodhue and Dodge counties will join in an excursion to the Twin Cities and University Farm on March 29. A special program is being prepared at the University Farm for the club members, parents and teachers on the excursion.

SOPHOMORES WIN THREE STRAIGHT TO TAKE INTERCLASS PENNANT

JUNIORS AND FRESHMEN TIE FOR SECOND—SENIORS GET CELLAR POSITION

Winning over their opponents by rather large counts, the Sophomores as a result laid undisputed claim to the B. H. S. Inter-Class Pennant. The champions this year were composed mainly of second team men but aside from this credit must be given them for the brand of ball they displayed throughout the tournament.

Comprising Gabiou, Larson, Hass, Dryburgh, Templeton, Clausen, Fredrickson, Doepeke, Geist, Marshall, Hohman, Toule, Stout and Anderson, second year men ran up a total of 90 points to the opposition's 35 which itself is a record in any three-game series. Coaching the winners was Carol Guin, pivot man captain of the Blue and White.

The Freshmen and Juniors tied for second by taking two and losing one. The Seniors had difficulty in getting started and as a result came out on the short end of their three games.

For the first year men Swanson, Wise, Garvey, White, Stucki, Johnson, Dybvik, Mustonen, Block, Anderson, Dahl, Helgeson and Erickson saw action while Mayo, Guin, Patterson, Cass, Rasch, Storm, Hanson, Holvick, Osell, Waring, Moe and Rice upheld the colors of the Juniors. Senior representatives included Kleven, Heald, Benson, Anderson, Jenkins, Olmsted, Dahl, Ginsburg, Nelson, Beggs and Erickson. Art Hautala coached the Frosh while Nathan Schuetz and Kenneth Clausen handled the Juniors. Bennie Foster assisted the Seniors.

The tabulated results of the games follow:

Fresh, 17; Seniors, 13.
Sophs, 30; Juniors, 19.
Juniors, 17; Frosh, 11.
Sophs, 19; Seniors, 9.

Brainerd Reinstated by Educational Group

Brainerd high school is again on the list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, according to a decision made by the annual convention held at Chicago on March 19. With the bestowal of this honor, Brainerd high school is now ranked as a first class institution.

The completion of Brainerd's excellent new high school with all its modern and adequate equipment has resulted in its readmission to the list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. High school officials are rejoicing at the event, as they were keenly disappointed when Brainerd was dropped even before the old school was destroyed due to building conditions. Reinstatement as a first class school has singular advantages aside from the mere honor; Brainerd graduates planning to enter college are exempted from entrance examinations.

A detailed report must be submitted to the association each year. The report includes a careful description of library, gym and classroom facilities, a list of students carrying more than four subjects, and the courses which are offered.

Honor Students Lauded for High Standings

Edith Frost with an average of 93.3 for four years of high school work is the valedictorian of the class of 1930 and Claude Holden with an average of 92.7 is the salutatorian. These two seniors and Hattie Zawadzki, Adolf Erickson, Ardelle Persson and Clarence Holden will graduate with highest honors (summa cum laude) due to their averages of 91.4. A consistent grade of 90 makes it possible for Hazel Persson, Selma Nygaard, Overt Benson, Betty Robertson, Eleanor Schley, Sylvia Swanson, and Genevieve Jenkins to graduate magna cum laude (with great honors). The cum laude (high honor) group who have grades of 88+ include Evelyn Grimstad, Lo-Rayne Enemark, Lucille Bryan, Lillian Turner, Yorda Magnuson, Ethel Kugel, Richard Ebert, Mildred Gustafson, Roger Kleven, Roger Callahan, and Isabelle McPherson.

REBOUNDS

On the spring athletic card, track seems to hold major honors since the relays are a reality and nearing is inter-class track, dual meets with other schools, the district meet, and regional competition which are all branches of the cinder sport.

Practically the entire squad of tracksters who competed in the district meet last year are back and this should give the Warriors a fairly good chance this season.

Spring football which is an annual event on the spring program may wind up in a game between picked squads which has been the trend in former years.

Shorthand and Typing Contests Given Soon

Shorthand and typing classes (1 & 2) are eligible to enter contests presented by the O. G. A. and O. A. T. Contests of Shorthand and Typing and Order of Artists in the State. The object is to make an original design on the paper using characters on the keyboard. For unusual work, certificates and pins are awarded. Miss Ruthe plans to have her classes enter the April contest.

For speed last month, in Typing 1—Arlene Hagberg, Ruth Fallquist, Jean Cass and Alice Olson won awards—presented by the different typewriting companies.

Last week the shorthand 1 classes prepared copies of material and sent them in to the O. G. A. National Contest. Results will be published in June. Each person sends in one paper and it is returned bearing the criticisms of experts. In this way faults in character formation are discovered and may be corrected.

TWO PAPERS CHOSEN IN LEAGUE CONTEST

Of the 15 seniors who competed for first and second places in the local League of Nations contest by writing a League examination given March 14, Adolf Erickson was given credit for having written the outstanding paper, and Lucille Bryan was the next choice of the judges. Excellent work was done by Claude Holden, Ardelle Persson, Hattie Zawadzki, Overt Benson and Ross Olmsted but the papers written by Adolf and Lucille were finally selected for their factual content as well as their appreciation of the League and its work.

These two papers have been sent to the League of Nations association of New York City. Thirty-five high schools in the state of Minnesota each had the same privilege so that competition for state and national honors is keen. Results will be announced later.

LUNCH TOTERS PASS AS CAFETERIA OPENS

Brainerd high school's cafeteria is now open to students. This has been made possible by the modern conveniences provided when the new school was built, and is due also to the energy of Miss Bertha Filk, home training instructor, and a corps of willing assistants.

At least one hot dish is being served every day in addition to other standard foods usually found in cafeterias. Students are requested to sign for the hot dish either the preceding day or on the morning of the day the hot dish is to be served.

A goodly number of students formerly lunch carriers are availing themselves of the opportunity to have a hot luncheon, an impossibility heretofore because of lack of facilities.

UNUSUAL LETTERS TO BE AWARDED WARRIORS

After a successful basketball season such as Warren's Warriors have recently enjoyed, the annual athletic banquet is the next order of business. At this banquet which is to be held soon, letters will be awarded to those who have contributed their share to the team's progress. No one has been permitted to see the letters up to this writing, but it is rumored that they are in a special class by themselves and that any Warrior or any one of the young braves will be proud to wear the one he receives.

YE EDITOR

Two debates recently given by district high schools in the Brainerd high school auditorium as neutral territory have aroused much interest in debating in this vicinity. Contrary, however, to the prevailing opinion that this high school ignores such an important extra-curricular activity, let it be said that considerable attention is given to it in regular class work.

Over one hundred Juniors are provided with special training in debating for at least five weeks every year. English. According to the state line in English every rule and regulation governing such work is carefully observed with the result that the arguments presented are the product of each student's research. No speech is committed to memory by the student. His presentation is therefore not in the nature of a declamation. He must face a critical audience and rely on his own resources.

Correct Form Necessary

In spite of the fact that inter-school debates have their merits, only a few members of any high school may participate. Under present conditions it would seem that arguments are painstakingly written previous to the contest and learned so that delivery will be smooth and flowing. But such a situation makes for a glorified declamation contest, which certainly is not the object of real debating.

Brainerd high school authorities are contemplating a return to the state debating league but with the hope that the real purposes of debate may be made manifest and that all students participating from other cities as well as this one, may realize that mere memory work is not sufficient justification for the time and effort consumed. If good form is essential in golf playing, so proper technique is invaluable in debating.

In the meantime, English III classes will continue their good work in correct debating, by having inter-class debates and by presenting a real debate before the student body soon.

Night School Class Guests at Party at H. S.

Miss Emma Bratvett's night school class were guests at a party held in the cafeteria at the high school last Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Brantling, Mr. and Mrs. Mustonen, the Misses Kleven and Miss Alasker were contributors to the entertainment. Games were played after which Meadames Brantling and Mustonen served coffee, doughnuts and candy as a climax to a very enjoyable evening.

ART CLASS HANDLES VARIETY OF SUBJECTS

Poster work for "Mid-Summer Night's Dream" and "Nautical Knot" is not all the work Miss True's art class has done this year, even though it seems to be the opinion of the students that poster making is to be their chief occupation. In fact, only about two weeks of the course was taken up by this work. Color value, including texture and lighting effects, has been of prominence in all the work up to this point. Costume designing and landscaping have had much to do with this study.

Costume designs have been done according to the periods, Colonial, Italian, Japanese, Old English and French costumes have been completed. Some of these are very fine pieces of work. Silhouettes in black, and done with an eye to detail and basic design, have also been studied.

This week the class has taken up pen and ink sketching, similar to those done by Carl Zapffe in the '29 annual.

The course this far has proved so interesting that a number of the students have arranged with Miss True to continue the work in an advanced course next year.

BRAINONIAN VODVIL PRESENTATION NETS $100 PROFIT FOR ANNUAL

JUNIORS TO PRESENT PLAY, 'ADAM AND EVA'

George Irvine, as "Adam" and Elizabeth Irvine, as "Eve" have been selected as the principal characters in the Junior Class Play to be presented some time during the latter part of April. Other characters include: James King, a financier, Stuart Patterson, Uncle Horace, Gerald Cass, Lord Andrew, the would be son-in-law, Carl Holvick, Dr. De Lamater, Howard Storm, Clinton De Witt, King's son-in-law, Theodore Marchel, Julie De Witt, King's eldest daughter, Mildred Johnson, Corinthia the maid, Alice Nolan, and Aunt Abbie, sister-in-law Harriet Oberg.

With this cast it is expected that the play will be a decided success. It is a modern comedy with a plot that will appeal to all. The advisers of the class, Misses Olson and O'Brien, expect to begin rehearsals immediately.

GIRL CAGERS RESUME PLAY STOPPED IN '28

Girls' interclass basketball contests are scheduled for April 7, 8, 10. Since the burning of the old school in 1925 there has been no girls interclass basketball. Favorites in the coming classes in the high school gym are hard to select since the last group seen in action were the Freshmen and Sophomore teams of 1928.

The runners-up in 1928 will take the floor this year as the Junior team. The Senior team is the only other group with high school basketball experience. Competition between these two teams is likely to be strong with the underclassmen rated as dark horses.

Freshmen and the Junior candidates appeared for practice last week but the Senior and Sophomore squads have not yet organized. Thirty-six Freshmen and 24 Juniors responded to Miss Flueck's call for material. The candidates of each class are organized into opposing teams meeting in practice play every day this week in the gym from 3:30 to 5:30.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS GIVE PROGRAM AT SCHOOL

Campfire groups of the Brainerd high school, Tatapochon, Waditaka, and Netapow, presented a program to the entire student body, Friday morning in the auditorium. Barbara Zapffe announced the numbers which consisted of two opening songs, "Wholed" and "McNamara's Band," a one act play "The Outsider" and two concluding songs "Long, Long Worm" and "Taps."

Characters in the playlet were portrayed by Marie Erdman, Evangeline Twist, Marcella Farrow, Mardelle McGaffigan, Clara Grimstead, Virginia Nelson and Margaret Casey. The Misses Haug and Farrenkop as advisers of the group directed this presentation which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the audience.

STATE YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEET STARTS THURSDAY

Starting Thursday of this week the Minnesota State Young People's Federation will open a three day session at the Methodist church of this city. Final preparations will be made to-night when a meeting of all committee members connected with the enterprise will meet in the M. E. church at 7:30 P. M.

Delegates are expected from all parts of Minnesota and preparations have been made for their reception and entertainment in the homes of the church members of the eight cooperating churches.

AUDIENCE OF 500 WITNESSES CLEVER PERFORMANCE STARRING SCHOOL ARTISTS

More than 500 persons were in attendance at the Brainonian Vodvil presentation last Friday evening in the high school auditorium. Competition from that master screen character, George Arliss, who was starring in "Disraeli" at the Paramount theatre the same evening, was negligible.

Although the magnificent auditorium was only about half full, the gate receipts totaled somewhere in the neighborhood of one hundred dollars. This money will be put into the Brainonian Annual which is published each year by the students of the Brainerd high school.

The delightfully humorous as well as educational program called for many a laugh from the appreciative audience who voiced their opinions in hearty guffaws at intervals throughout the performance.

Dick Ebert as master of ceremonies introduced the acts in order, the first of which was "Isadore's Surprise" presented first in French and then in English. This was followed by a number of clever skits prepared and written by Dick which involved scenes of quiet country life, of tourists in their travels about the great open country lands, of lovers with the silvery moon, of life in the big cities and the trials and heart throbs connected with apartment hunting. The eager audience was taken, in the course of the evening, to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound lot in Hollywood where they witnessed the rehearsal of a sound picture in the making.

The crowning event of the evening, however, was the presentation of a bouquet of flowers to Alberta Smith, Brainerd high's sweetheart who rewarded the applauding audience with her renowned, dazzling smile while Mr. LaMeter's band, which furnished the music throughout the evening, played the strains of the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

NEED OF CONSERVATION CITED BY D. S. RUNDLETT

"Game and fish of Minnesota belong to the people of Minnesota and should be conserved to benefit future as well as present generations," declared Deane S. Rundlett, editor of "Fins, Furs and Feathers," Monday morning in the high school auditorium. "Minnesota has lost over 3,000 of its 11,017 (to be exact) lakes in recent years and it is the business of the Board of Conservation to educate people to the necessity for lake preservation."

Mr. Rundlett in his inimitable manner told students of the value of game, fish and forests to Minnesota, not only in a material but also in an educational way. He called attention to the habits of the black bass of Crow Wing county and urged that game wardens who try to enforce fishing laws as well as game laws be respected rather than resented.

Peter Cardie, game warden for this area, was introduced to the students by Mr. Rundlett.

The speaker concluded his talk with an appeal to all to obey game laws that Minnesota, the land of 10,000 lakes might remain a sportsman's paradise as it now is.

TALKS TO BIOLOGY CLASSES

Instructive lantern slides of animal and other wild life in the Minnesota river valley and of Superior national forest were greatly enjoyed by the Monday biology classes. The pictures were accompanied by educational and humorous remarks from Deane S. Rundlett, attorney for the Board of Conservation in Minnesota, and the editor of the magazine, "Fins, Furs and Fur."

Mr. Rundlett declared that he has travelled in every continent of the world, but he has enjoyed none so completely as in Superior National Forest where he spends Christmas vacation with the wardens and a number of Boy Scouts, who examine the condition of the animals and see that they are not being killed by hunters and trappers.

The lecture was in two sections, one describing animal and plant life in the Minnesota river valley and the other life in Superior national forest.

Brainerd Reinstated by Educational Group

Brainerd high school is again on the list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, according to a decision made by the annual convention held at Chicago on March 19. With the bestowal of this honor, Brainerd high school is now ranked as a first class institution.

The completion of Brainerd's excellent new high school with all its modern and adequate equipment has resulted in its readmission to the list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. High school officials are rejoicing at the event, as they were keenly disappointed when Brainerd was dropped even before the old school was destroyed due to building conditions. Reinstatement as a first class school has singular advantages aside from the mere honor; Brainerd graduates planning to enter college are exempted from entrance examinations.

A detailed report must be submitted to the association each year. The report includes a careful description of library, gym and classroom facilities, a list of students carrying more than four subjects, and the courses which are offered.

Honor Students Lauded for High Standings

Edith Frost with an average of 93.3 for four years of high school work is the valedictorian of the class of 1930 and Claude Holden with an average of 92.7 is the salutatorian. These two seniors and Hattie Zawadzki, Adolf Erickson, Ardele Persson and Clarence Holden will graduate with highest honors (summa cum laude) due to their averages of 91+. A consistent grade of 90 makes it possible for Hazel Persson, Selma Nygaard, Obert Benson, Betty Robertson, Eleanor Schley, Sylvia Swanson, and Genevieve Jenkins to graduate magna cum laude (with great honors). The cum laude (high honor) group who have grades of 88+ include Evelyn Grimstad, LeRayne Enemark, Lucille Bryan, Lillian Turner, Yerde Magnuson, Ethel Kagel, Richard Ebert, Mildred Gustafson, Roger Kleven, Roger Callahan, and Isabelle McPherson.

REBOUNDS

On the spring athletic card, track seems to hold major honors since the relays are a reality and nearing is inter-class track, dual meets with other schools, the district meet, and regional competition which are all branches of the cinder sport.

Practically the entire squad of track-sters who competed in the district meet last year are back and this should give the Warriors a fairly good chance this season.

Spring football which is an annual event on the spring program may wind up in a game between picked squads which has been the trend in former years.

YE EDITOR

Two debates recently given by district high schools in the Brainerd high school auditorium as neutral territory have aroused much interest in debating in this vicinity. Contrary, however, to the prevailing opinion that this high school ignores such an important extra-curricular activity, let it be said that considerable attention is given to it in regular class work.

Over one hundred Juniors are provided with special training in debating for at least five weeks every year. English. According to the state in English every rule and regulation governing such work is carefully observed with the result that the arguments presented are the product of each student's research. No speech is committed to memory by the student. His presentation is therefore not in the nature of a declamation. He must face a critical audience and rely on his own resources.

Correct Form Necessary

In spite of the fact that inter-school debates have their merits, only a few members of any high school may participate. Under present conditions it would seem that arguments are painstakingly written previous to the contest and learned so that delivery will be smooth and flowing. But such a situation hardly makes for a glorified declamation contest, which certainly is not the object of real debating.

Brainerd high school authorities are contemplating a return to the state debating league but with the hope that the real purposes of debate may be made manifest and that all students participating from other cities as well as this one, may realize that mere memory work is not sufficient justification for the time and effort consumed. If good form is essential in golf playing, so proper technique is invaluable in debating.

In the meantime, English III classes will continue their good work in correct debating, by having inter-class debates and by presenting a real debate before the student body soon.

TWO PAPERS CHOSEN IN LEAGUE CONTEST

Of the 15 seniors who competed for first and second places in the local League of Nations contest by writing a League examination given March 14, Adolf Erickson was given credit for having written the outstanding paper, and Lucille Bryan's was the next choice of the judges. Excellent work was done by Claude Holden, Ardele Persson, Hattie Zawadzki, Obert Benson and Ross Olmsted but the papers written by Adolf and Lucille were finally selected for their factual content as well as their appreciation of the League and its work.

These two papers have been sent to the League of Nations association of New York City. Thirty-five high schools in the state of Minnesota each had the same privilege so that competition for state and national honors is keen. Results will be announced later.

Night School Class Guests at Party at H. S.

Miss Emma Bratvett's night school class were guests at a party held in the cafeteria at the high school last Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Branting, Mr. and Mrs. Mustonen, the Misses Kleven and Miss Alsaker were contributors to the entertainment.

Games were played after which Mesdames Branting and Mustonen served coffee, doughnuts and candy as a climax to a very enjoyable evening.

ART CLASS HANDLES VARIETY OF SUBJECTS

Poster work for "Mid-Summer Night's Dream" and "Nautical Knot" is not all the work Miss True's art class has done this year, even though it seems to be the opinion of the students that poster making is to be their chief occupation. In fact, only about two weeks of the course was taken up with this work. Color value, including texture and lighting effects, has been of prominence in all the work up to this point. Costume designing and landscaping have had much to do with this study.

Costume designs have been done according to the periods. Colonial, Italian, Japanese, Old English and French costumes have been completed. Some of these are very fine pieces of work. Silhouettes in black, and done with an eye to detail and basic design, have also been studied.

This week the class has taken up pen and ink sketching, similar to those done by Carl Zapffe in the '29 annual.

The course this far has proved so interesting that a number of the students have arranged with Miss True to continue the work in an advanced course next year.

BRAINONIAN VODVIL PRESENTATION NETS $100 PROFIT FOR ANNUAL

JUNIORS TO PRESENT PLAY, 'ADAM AND EVA'

George Irvine, as "Adam" and Elizabeth Irvine, as "Eve" have been selected as the principal characters in the Junior Class Play to be presented some time during the latter part of April. Other characters include: James King, a financier, Stuart Patterson, Uncle Horace, Gerald Cass, Lord Andrew, the would be son-in-law, Carl Holvick, Dr. De Lamater, Howard Storm, Clinton De Witt, King's son-in-law, Theodore Marchel, Julie De Witt, King's eldest daughter, Mildred Johnson, Corintha the maid, Alice Nolan, and Aunt Abbie, sister-in-law Harriet Oberg.

With this cast it is expected that the play will be a decided success. It is a modern comedy with a plot that will appeal to all. The advisers of the class, Misses Olson and O'Brien, expect to begin rehearsals immediately.

GIRL CAGERS RESUME PLAY STOPPED IN '28

Girls' interclass basketball contests are scheduled for April 7, 8, 10. Since the burning of the old school in 1928 there has been no girls interclass basketball. Favorites in the coming classes in the high school gym are hard to select since the last group seen in action were the Freshmen and Sophomore teams of 1928.

The runners-up in 1928 will take the floor this year as the Junior team. The Senior team is the only other group with high school basketball experience. Competition between these two teams is likely to be strong with the underclassmen rated as dark horses.

Freshmen and the Junior candidates appeared for practice last week but the Senior and Sophomore squads have not yet organized. Thirty-six Freshmen and 24 Juniors responded to Miss Flueck's call for material. The candidates of each class are organized into opposing teams meeting in practice play every day this week in the gym from 3:30 to 5:30.

NEED OF CONSERVATION CITED BY D. S. RUNDLETT

"Game and fish of Minnesota belong to the people of Minnesota and should be conserved to benefit future as well as present generations," declared Deane S. Rundlett, editor of "Fins, Furs and Feathers," Monday morning in the high school auditorium. "Minnesota has lost over 3,000 of its 11,017 (to be exact) lakes in recent years and it is the business of the Board of Conservation to educate people to the necessity for lake preservation."

Mr. Rundlett in his inimitable manner told students of the value of game, fish and forests to Minnesota, not only in a material but also in an educational way. He called attention to the habits of the black bass of Crow Wing county and urged that game wardens who try to enforce fishing laws as well as game laws be respected rather than resented.

Peter Cardle, game warden for this area, was introduced to the students by Mr. Rundlett.

The speaker concluded his talk with an appeal to all to obey game laws that Minnesota, the land of 10,000 lakes might remain a sportsman's paradise as it now is.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS GIVE PROGRAM AT SCHOOL

Campfire groups of the Brainerd high school, Tatapochon, Waditaka, and Netatopew, presented a program to the entire student body, Friday morning in the auditorium. Barbara Zapffe announced the numbers which consisted of two opening songs, "Wholed" and "McNamara's Band," a one act play "The Outsider" and two concluding songs "Long, Long Worm" and "Taps."

Characters in the playlet were portrayed by Marie Erdman, Evangeline Twist, Marcelle Farrow, Mardelle McGaffigan, Clara Grimstead, Virginia Nelson and Margaret Casey. The Misses Haug and Farrenkopf as advisers of the group directed this presentation which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the audience.

ECKERSALL, GREAT ATHLETE, SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK

DOCTORS HAD TOLD HIM FOR

TICKER"

LIKE TAD, WALTER CAMP AND OTHERS, END CAME WITH A MOMENT'S NOTICE

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 25.—Walter Eckersall, the greatest football general ever developed by a middle western team, had passed on.

A great athlete in his day, a fighter on the track or on the baseball field and without a peer as a football player, "Eckie" died yesterday—just as he wanted to die.

He died standing up. Doctors had told him that he had a "bum ticker" but he laughed at them and said he would like to be 60 or better. Death came while he was trying to stand up long enough to beat off the heart attack—as he had beaten them off for three or four years. He was 43.

Like Tad, Walter Camp and a host of others in the sports field, Eckie died as most of us want to pass on—with a second's notice.

Only two years ago, while we were seated in a press box, Eckie in discussing the death of Walter Camp, the greatest of American football experts, had the following to say:

"Gee, he went out like a light, didn't he? That's the way I want to die."

"Camp was lucky. If I am that lucky I'll thank whatever Gods there are. When you drop dead you beat a lot of suffering."

A man without ego, Eckie was the greatest of all middle western sports authorities. His one fault was that he lived in the past. He couldn't see a modern achievement.

If some one made a 90-yard run in a football game he immediately referred to the fact that "Well, that's pretty good, but Willie Heston (who played for Michigan 1902-5) would have run their heads off under the same circumstances."

Eckie didn't say, "Well, I ran 105 yards against Wisconsin when I was playing in 1905," or "I made good six drop kicks against Nebraska in 1906."

Eckie was a serious-minded, quiet sort of person, but he carried more sports information in his head than any writer in the middle west. He was a record book within himself.

MAY REGROUP ALL CAGE REGIONS OF STATE THIS YEAR

MATTERS OF ATHLETICS, DECLAMATION AND DEBATE COME BEFORE STATE BODY

OFFICIALS MEET AT MINNEAPOLIS TOMORROW; 32 DISTRICTS
NOW IN STATE

On Wednesday of this week, March 26, the annual meeting of the Governing Board of the State Athletic Association will be held in Minneapolis.

This governing board, now known as the representative assembly, has full control in all matters pertaining to high school athletics, declamation and debate. Other high school activities will also pass under its control from year to year.

At the head of the State Governing Body for School Athletics and other activities, is the State Board of Control, consisting of five members. This board is the executive body which directs the high school athletics for the state during the year. The board maintains executive offices and employs a full time paid secretary and stenographer. The executive secretary settles, for the board, most of the minor questions that come up for immediate action, during the season.

The Representative Assembly, which is the final governing authority, is a body composed of 32 elective delegates from the superintendents of the state, and at their annual meeting in March they pass upon any matter that comes before their body looking toward the betterment of high school athletics, declamation and debate. They are the legislative body of the State Athletic Association, W. C. Cobb, superintendent of Brainerd schools, explains.

The State Board of Athletic Control divides the state into athletic districts and regions, determining what schools shall constitute a given district, and what districts shall be grouped together to constitute a region.

The state is divided into 8 regions, with 4 districts to each region. The basketball teams that will be contesting in the state tournament this week at the University field house, will be the 8 championship teams from the 8 regions of the state referred to above. Brainerd high school is in District 11, Region three, but it is highly probable that our 11th District will be grouped in another region before next fall. The entire state is being regrouped into regions in order to secure a better balance and better locations for regional centers for tournament purposes.

Under the state constitution of the high school League, the State Board of Control has authority and management over all regional affairs, but as a matter of convenience and practical utility the board has delegated this authority to the several regional committees which consist of the four district chairmen of a given region. The regional committee elects its own officers, determines upon the location of the regional tournament and conducts the regional tournament.

Under the state regulations, the proceeds from a regional tournament, after local expenses are paid, are divided as follows:

One-half of the proceeds goes to the local school where the tournament is held, and the balance is divided equally between the state and regional treasuries.

At the recent regional tournament in St. Cloud, the total proceeds of the two nights was about $1100.00. The total expenses in conducting the tournament amounted to about $750.00, leaving a profit of $350.00, of which about $150.00 would go to the St. Cloud high school and the remaining $150 would be divided between the state association and the regional treasury.

The governing body of a district, such as the 11th District in which we are located, is very similar in general plan to that of the state association. The real governing authority is vested in a representative assembly which meets in October of each year, and in this district consists of the superintendents of the 16 high school towns within the district.

This representative assembly is the source of all governing authority in athletic matters within the district and at its annual meeting usually determines the place for holding the district tournament, the manner of selecting officials, the admission charges that shall be fixed for the tournament, and any other matters pertaining to the athletic program for the school year that they see fit, governed, of course, by the state rules and regulations.

As a matter of convenience, this assembly, after passing on matters of major importance, usually instructs the district committee of three members to take charge of all details that may arise during the playing season. The actual selection of officials for the tournament is usually left to the district committee and the settling of questions of eligibility, and the arbitrating of disputes and protests are left to the district committee, subject to an appeal to the State Board of Control.

During the current season in this district, a considerable number of such projects and disputes both in athletics and debating, came to the district committee for final settlement.

A general financial statement has already been published in connection with the 11th District Tournament. The tournament at Brainerd, both declamatory and basketball, totalled nearly $1,600.00 and the tournament at Crosby and Staples brought in nearly $900.00.

Expenses for conducting the tournament at Crosby, Staples and Brainerd were necessarily heavy as they included railway fare and hotel accommodations for fourteen schools, with fifteen representatives whose expenses were paid from each town.

After all expenses in connection with the three tournaments were paid, and a sum of $250 was set aside for the treasury nest-egg for next year, the balance of about $900.00 was divided equally among the fourteen schools that participated in the three tournaments. This amounted to a dividend of about $70.00 to each school.

GODFREY FAILS TO EQUAL RECORD OF PRIMO CARNERA

Philadelphia, March 25.—(U.P.)—George Godfrey, giant Lehighville, Pa., negro, failed to equal Primo Carnera's knockout record against Ace Clark of Philadelphia last night. Godfrey took seven rounds to stop him, but gave him a far worse beating than Carnera did, three weeks ago.

Clark was no match for Godfrey. He went to the canvas for counts of eight in the fifth and sixth, and was finished by a hard right to the jaw early in the seventh. Godfrey weighed 247½ and Clark 237.

COACH WARREN KASCH STRESSING PREPAREDNESS FOR FUTURE CHAMPIONS

Preparedness! Coach Warren Kasch of the Brainerd high school has great faith in that word.

When in future years Brainerd high school wins the district championship, the regional and then the state, this word will be directly responsible for that success.

When Mr. Kasch called for a freshman basketball practice last evening, 37 youngsters reported at the gymnasium. They were started in with fundamentals. Tonight a similar number of sophomores and juniors will report. Last Saturday 80 grade school students turned out for practice, reporting in four groups.

A total of 145 boys outside the regular gymnasium periods are using the gymnasium.

A large number of girls are also taking advantage of the facilities and opportunities in body building and health affording exercises.

"Sweet Cookie!"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THE rookie who danned Babe Ruth's historic No. 3 uniform for early practice with the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla., a few weeks ago—that's Allen "Dusty" Cooke, who has been slated to take Bob Meusel's old left garden assignments. The immortal Bam was still holding out for more salary when the Yanks assembled and his duds fit "Dusty." So Cooke put 'em on—all but the Ruthian shoes! Even the ambitious and brilliant young recruit from St. Paul would not attempt to fill the Babe's brogans as yet!

Cooke hit 33 homers in the American Association last season and his pal, Ben Chapman, slated to start at third base for the Yanks, belted 31. Both these rookies seemed assured of regular positions from the season's start—they were that good with St. Paul last year and their early form has more than justified expectations. The "Dusty" husky batted for .358 in 1929. Cooke got that nickname, by the way, when a kid after fording a load of peach brandy for a friend over miles of dusty Carolina roads. "Dusty" swears he didn't even get a taste of his stimulating cargo (he was too young, perhaps!) but he did "eat as much earth as a man crawling across the Sahara."

"Dusty" was born a little more than 23 years ago on a farm not far from Durham, N. C. He was a football star at high school, but family needs compelled him to get a job in the carding room of a cotton mill before he could finish this course. He played baseball on the side, was a sensation with the Durham club, ditto with Ben Chapman at Asheville in 1928, and likewise with the Saints all last season. He is at home in any field, though right was his regular berth with the Saints.

"Cap" Neal, business manager of the Louisville club, tabs Cooke as "Ruth's logical successor"—a larger order to fill by far than was that illustrious No. 3 Yankee uniform which "Dusty" squeezed himself into during those days when the club management was trying to "psych" the Bam into signing for less money than Ruth demanded.

For sentimental folk, the info is given that Cooke is Scotch-Welsh and the sole support of a widowed mother.

WINNING REAL FRIENDS BY GIVING REAL SATISFACTION

There can be little doubt of the warm friendship that Oldsmobile and Viking owners accord their cars. For Oldsmobile and Viking owners are quick to express their satisfaction . . . always ready and eager to recommend Oldsmobile and Viking to their friends and neighbors.

Assuredly it takes more than mere close acquaintance with a motor car to build such loyalty. And both Oldsmobile and Viking have that "something more" in a measure above the ordinary.

Brilliant performance—at high speeds or hard pulling—in every phase of motoring. Restful riding comfort and ease of control over every type of road. Continued economy that becomes more apparent as time goes on. Thoroughgoing dependability over the months and the miles.

These are the things that create friendship for Oldsmobile and Viking. These, plus the vitally important factor of honest value.

If you wish to learn more about the qualities of either of these two fine cars, inquire among your friends who drive them. Then come and see Oldsmobile and Viking yourself. Drive them and know what they can do. Prove to your personal satisfaction that each is a great car—a real value—at its price.

WINNING REAL FRIENDS BY GIVING REAL SATISFACTION

There can be little doubt of the warm friendship that Oldsmobile and Viking owners accord their cars. For Oldsmobile and Viking owners are quick to express their satisfaction . . . always ready and eager to recommend Oldsmobile and Viking to their friends and neighbors.

Assuredly it takes more than mere close acquaintance with a motor car to build such loyalty. And both Oldsmobile and Viking have that "something more" in a measure above the ordinary.

Brilliant performance—at high speeds or hard pulling—in every phase of motoring. Restful riding comfort and ease of control over every type of road. Continued economy that becomes more apparent as time goes on. Thoroughgoing dependability over the months and the miles.

These are the things that create friendship for Oldsmobile and Viking. These, plus the vitally important factor of honest value.

If you wish to learn more about the qualities of either of these two fine cars, inquire among your friends who drive them. Then come and see Oldsmobile and Viking yourself. Drive them and know what they can do. Prove to your personal satisfaction that each is a great car—a real value—at its price.

Van's Cafe won the first game by 34 pins with 948 total, lost the second by 2 pins with a 940 count and came back with a big 981 total to smash their own high total record of 2859 with 2869. Lively Auto rolled in form to take two from Peterson Clothing Co. Their games of 929, 882 and 916 totaled 2727. London, March 25.—(U.P.)—The naval conference delegates will meet in plenary session next week presumably to make known whether they will continue negotiations or adjourn for six months to prevent collapse of their efforts to limit the world's great navies.

With the conference near failure because of the deadlock on French and Italian claims, the five chief delegates met at St. James palace this afternoon to hear Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald summarize the situation and consider proposals for adjournment.

They decided to reconvene Thursday for what may be a last hour effort to achieve a five power agreement without a period of adjournment. Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, will be present.

MacDonald recalled to the chief delegates that the French and British experts have continued their discussions of tonnage figures.

The prime minister also discussed the French-Italian deadlock and reminded the delegates that the United States is still awaiting Japan's reply to proposals on naval ratios.

It was understood MacDonald suggested the time had come to return to plenary sessions in the belief that private conversations are not sufficient under the circumstances. Hope was expressed that such a plan would advance the situation.

4-H GIRLS WIN TRIP

Three farm girls out of the 9,455 enrolled in girls' 4-H Club work in Illinois have been selected on the basis of their outstanding records for free trips to national and international 4-H Club events to be held this summer in the east. Catherine Sullivan, 21 (left), Knox county, will be the state's official delegate to the international 4-H leadership training school to be held at Camp Vail, Spring, Mass., for two weeks, beginning September 7. Joy Hardy, 19 (center), of Hancock county, and Mildred Mies, 18 (right), of Livingston county, are to be the Illinois girls' club representatives at the fourth annual 4-H camp to be held June 18 to 24 at Washington, D. C.

Plans to Take Record From Zep

John Henry Mears, New York business man and world famous globe girder, seated in the cockpit of a training plane at Central Airport, Camden, N. J., where he is taking flying instructions. His purpose is of course the unswerving determination to get one more hold on the record for the around-the-world trip. In 1920, with Pilot Captain Charles B. Collyer, he used a plane for a major part of the globe-circling exploit in which he established a record of 23 days. The record was short-lived, however, for the very next year the Graf Zeppelin made the trip in 21 days.

European power regardless of the effect of that determination upon the fate of the London naval conference, it was reliably made known today.

How Fire Insurance Inspectors Work for You

Frequent, thorough inspections and surveys of insured properties are an indispensable part of the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies. Hundreds of men are engaged in this work.

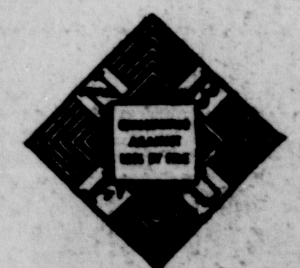

Inspections provide the data from which insurance maps are made—rate-makers compute the rate—the agent writes the policy—the underwriter judges the risk, and accepts or rejects it.

Expert Knowledge

The inspector must understand construction, must have a knowledge of the individual hazards of every business, the details of public and private fire protection, the susceptibility to damage of contents and many other matters relating to the character of an insurance risk.

Through his work defects and hazardous conditions are brought to the attention of the property owner. Inspections are the immediate cause of eliminating fire hazards with their attendant reduction in fire waste and the cost of insurance.

Inspections have substantially contributed to the steady decline in the average rate in this country with the result that fire insurance is today one of the cheapest necessities.

Frugality is good if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last bestowing them to the benefit of others that need. The first without the last begins prodigality.—William Penn.

Date Set for Sessions
The Constitution provided that the congress should assemble March 4, 1789, and thereafter convene "in every year" on the first Monday in December unless it shall by law appoint a different day. Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed naming dates other than December. Since then, with few exceptions, congress has convened in December.

How Fire Insurance Inspectors Work for You

Frequent, thorough inspections and surveys of insured properties are an indispensable part of the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies. Hundreds of men are engaged in this work.

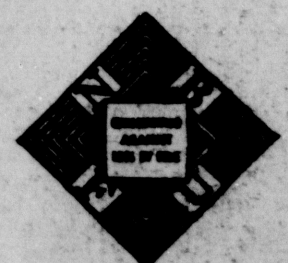

Inspections provide the data from which insurance maps are made—rate-makers compute the rate—the agent writes the policy—the underwriter judges the risk, and accepts or rejects it.

Expert Knowledge

The inspector must understand construction, must have a knowledge of the individual hazards of every business, the details of public and private fire protection, the susceptibility to damage of contents and many other matters relating to the character of an insurance risk.

Through his work defects and hazardous conditions are brought to the attention of the property owner. Inspections are the immediate cause of eliminating fire hazards with their attendant reduction in fire waste and the cost of insurance.

Inspections have substantially contributed to the steady decline in the average rate in this country with the result that fire insurance is today one of the cheapest necessities.

"OUR FOREIGN NEIGHBORS," TOPIC

Dr. A. E. Koenig Addresses Audience in High School Auditorium Last Evening

MRS. HAWKINSON PRESIDES

Problems of Foreign Born Presented by Speaker in Sympathetic Manner

The last meeting of the year of the literary section of the Brainerd Musical club was exceptionally interesting.

The meeting opened with two selections by the Harmony Four which was much appreciated. Mr. La Meter's pep band added to the programs enjoyability. They played an overture and three encores.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. A. E. Koenig, president of the Inter-Racial Council, advisor for foreign students at the University of Minnesota and director of night schools at the Y. M. C. A. was introduced by Mrs. L. F. Hawkinson.

Dr. Koenig gave a most instructive talk on "Our Foreign Neighbors." To add to the interest he illustrated his entire talk with pictures.

In opening Dr. Koenig told a couple of stories to make the problems of the foreign born better understood by us. He told about the new citizen coming up to be questioned. The examiner asked him, "Why do you want to be a citizen?" The man thought, then answered, "Because it is good for me," before the examiner could question him further he added, "Because it is good for my children," and again, "Because it is good for the country." He was admitted without further questioning.

To show the persistence of the foreign born Dr. Koenig told about a young woman who went to night school six months and in that time only learned to write her name. She was duly graduated because it seemed that she could be taught no more. What was the surprise of the teacher the next year to find this same young woman back again—why—because she had married and had to learn to write her new name.

They say there is a difference between the immigrant of yesterday and the new immigrant. They say the new immigrant is different because we have new laws, restricted immigration. They say the new immigrant cannot read or write but is brawn and muscle. The new immigrant comes from a different part of Europe than the old immigrant. The new ones come from certain sections of southern and eastern Europe. We went after him, we wanted him. We wanted him to develop our industries, wanted him for cheap labor, we told him some day he could go back after working their attitude. It says, "A blind man here found earning money." "Not here," he would be able to buy himself from cast he was born in because he would have money. Since 1870 this type of immigrant is the one we know. Before then we had the immigrant that became our pioneers of our country.

The new immigrant we want for their muscle. About 38 out of every 100 do go back to their own country.

The Slavoc for 1,000 years was ruled with might. They refused to become like Hungarians so remained illiterate. Those who come here want to be part of America. Because of this we find the Slavoc most willing of today.

The Pole with his checkered career lost his independence in 1796 because the nobles of the country wanted the titles lavished on them that could be done by other countries.

The Northern and Western races of Europe are considered the master races of immigrants. They are our old immigrant. Of these we would find only about three percent illiterate. They came here with their families and settled and prospered. Consider the men immigrant from southern and eastern Europe, about 52 percent are illiterate, they come alone, leaving their families behind them. It is easy to understand how new problems are made when we have entirely different people to deal with.

In 1620 the Mayflower landed, we are proud to point to them as our ancestors, were they not foreign born, are we not all immigrants. The only true American is the American Indian, we are all immigrants.

The new citizen to be goes through many hardships to come to America. Uncle Sam has made the ocean trip somewhat easier by making the steerage class much better. When the new citizen comes into the harbor they see the Statue of Liberty and they know what it stands for, then they see the skyline of New York and then Ellis Island where they must be examined, then the gang plank which they walk down with quaking knees and heavy heart for they cannot speak our language and wonder what will happen to them. I wonder if we know how serious it is to leave all behind.

Since 1906 a record is kept of every immigrant entering this country legally. When applying for citizenship one must show his card of entry as registered by the government.

Every immigrant contributes some good. Think of the gypsy who is responsible for our Hungarian Rhapsodies. What more beautiful music could be wanted.

All immigrants are eager to become good citizens when America is interpreted to them and they in turn interpret to America.

The Bulgarians are interesting people. They are one of the poorest countries because of difficulties within and they deserve our good will.

The Albanian under Turkish rule was not allowed to attend school. They were severely punished if they tried to learn. Today it is different, they are anxious to learn and to teach their children.

In Bohemia we have a very high class of individual. Less than two percent are illiterate.

Of those that are called Russians only about two of every 100 are real Russians. An interesting poster of Russia may give a little light as to their attitude. It says, "A blind man here found earning money." "Not here," he would be able to buy himself from cast he was born in because he would have money. Since 1870 this type of immigrant is the one we know. Before then we had the immigrant that became our pioneers of our country.

Our Foreign Neighbors, what are they doing in this country—farming and are good farmers; building our railroads and work hard; working our mines where they labor long hours so the wheels of industry keeps moving; in lumber camps, in steel foundries where they work harder than we may understand. They carry burdens we do not want to carry. Our Foreign Neighbor is working hard and they are worth while to America. To return to the first story the foreign born is good for the country.

In closing a few statistics were given. We have restricted immigration. In round numbers 154 thousand may enter each year, that is from all countries. From all of Europe 160 thousand. This number is divided so that northern and northwest Europe are allowed approximately 125,000, southern and eastern Europe 24,000. So even though some say that too many new immigrants are allowed to enter, these figures show that even under this new law the old immigrant still predominates in number allowed to enter.

This morning Dr. Koenig spoke to the high school on Turkey of Today.

FINED $10 AND COSTS ON MILK CHARGE

Ruling that distribution of milk without a license was equally an infringement of the city ordinance governing the supply of milk as sale without a license Judge J. H. Warner found Mrs. H. B. Olson, farmerette, in municipal court this morning guilty of failing to have a license and fined her $10 and costs.

The judge explained that the ordinance governing the milk supply and licensing was created for the purpose of providing a check on the farmers handling milk in the city that the milk consumed meet the health requirements.

Mrs. Olson testified to the court that the bottle of milk secured by Dr. A. Hallquist and introduced as evidence as having been sold by her was given Mrs. Chris Kreech, South Sixth street.

"I didn't charge Mrs. Kreech for the milk. I gave it to her when I came to pay her social visits," said Mrs. Olson, who testified that on March 15, the day when she gave the milk to Mrs. Kreech, she had applied to the office of Dr. Hallquist, city dairy inspector, for a license, which application must be acted upon by the city council.

"Anna Christie"

An event of unusual theatrical significance is Greta Garbo's first talking picture. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking dramatization of Eugene O'Neill's well known play, "Anna Christie," is presented at the Paramount theatre tonight and Wednesday with Greta Garbo creating the role which Pauline Lord originally portrayed on the New York stage.

"Anna Christie" is the first O'Neill play to come to the audible screen. And of all his work, it seems safe to say that "Anna Christie" is best suited to the needs of the talking picture. A play throbbing with the heartbeats of people whose destinies are recklessly worked out by the wayward winds of the sea, it represents O'Neill at the peak of his powers in depicting the influence of the sea on human life.

WATSON CHECKS GRIM PESTILENCE

Head of American Board Hospital at Fenchow, China, Acts in Crisis

SPEAKS AT ROTARY TODAY

At 7:30 O'clock This Evening Will Give Address at First Congregational Church

When the pneumonic plague broke out in China in 1928 it was imperative that it be checked at once or it might have devastated China and gone on, no one knows how far. It is a disease for which there is no inoculation and from which no one ever recovers.

The responsibility for staying this deadly pestilence fell upon Dr. Percy T. Watson, head of the American Board hospital at Fenchow, and his native assistants. At great risk to their own lives they went out through the villages along a 200 mile front. They traveled through that mountainous country on the backs of animals in the aggregate some 50,000 miles. But the plague was stayed.

This is but one example of action in the life of a man devoted to use his splendid talents in the service of humanity rather than for personal profit.

In some 20 odd years he has built up a great hospital, in fact the only hospital and medical center in a territory with a population of 12 million. He has not only shown capacity to do these things for himself, but he has raised up a group of native doctors and nurses to carry on his work.

He went to China in 1908 after the Boxer rebellion had destroyed all previous missionary work and while his associates were busy building schools and churches, he devoted himself to the healing of physical ills.

Dr. Watson spoke in Brainerd some years ago. He is a native of Minnesota and a graduate of Carleton college. Speaking of his personal traits, his great achievements are only excelled by his modesty. His list of engagements today includes an address at the Brainerd Rotary club and his address at the First Congregational church tonight at 7:30 o'clock, to which the public is cordially invited.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XXXIX.

YOU at least suspected that Maurois was a person of importance here—I know that he is the Big Boss and has this rotten local government in his pocket. I think you used the old technique, Shirley, the technique you learned from your father and tried to apply with your husband—and would have done so if he hadn't been a greedy fool, I daresay. You met Maurois at the right time—and you talked to him in the right way."

"I still don't understand," said Shirley. "I myself told you, in his presence, that Maurois must have helped."

"You heard him refuse my offer of shares in return for his help?" "But—that is not my fault!" she protested.

"He does not look to me for his reward, Shirley. That man is one of the shrewdest men on earth and I should say one of the most disillusioned. I think he probably knows all there is to know about you and me—he's in touch with Cynaz, for one thing. That man would not stir his little finger without reward—or the hope of reward."

Shirley said nothing. The strength had gone out of her and she was drifting. Alan was right again with the same irrelevant rightness, unanswerable from this point of view yet never seeing the tiniest glimpse of hers.

Looking backwards she could see nothing but justification for Alan's belief. There was that first ambiguous conversation in Maurois, she could admit now that she the concession in the same breath with the dream woman and his horrible ideal of loading a woman with possessions. Of course, he had been offering her a bribe then. He knew about Roger and he wanted to get her away from Alan.

She ought to have cut Maurois after that. She had refrained from cutting him because she feared his influence with Stavros. Over the weeks of their subsequent association, he had discovered that she was more difficult than he had believed at first and had changed his tactics by giving her the bribe in advance.

That was Alan's inference. What could she say? In a sense it was true. If she had held out no faintest shadow of a promise to Maurois, she could admit now that she had taken no step to prevent his deceiving himself in regard to her.

Bitterness welled up within her. Maurois, the beast of prey, had cheated himself—there was at least a malicious consolation to be derived from that.

"Everything is hopelessly muddled," she said wearily. "I can't hope to explain, Alan."

"There is no need to explain," he answered dispassionately. "I am asking you nothing, accusing you of nothing. There is the concession. It only remains for me to thank you."

There came an almost irresistible impulse to laugh and laugh and laugh. "It only remains for me to thank you." She forced herself to play her part in that monstrous farce.

She got up to go to bed. "If there is anything else I can do, let me know," she said dully.

"Thanks," he answered. "I shall be glad of your help in clearing up here and getting rid of the house. I'll try and get time tomorrow to see the agent and find out how we stand. Good night, Shirley."

It was by an ironical trick of the Fates that on the very next morning Shirley and Alan should both receive letters informing them that Roger had obtained his decree nisi.

"You're well out of that anyway," said Alan indifferently. That was perfectly true, thought Shirley, but his indifference was disturbing. He seemed to have dismissed the matter from his mind for he hurried on.

"I shall have to fly over the ground today. I don't know whether I shall have time to see the house agent. I was looking at a letter before I came down and I find we took the place for six months. That means we've got another two months. I suppose we shall be able to get rid of it all right, though."

"I shall keep it on," she said. She avoided his eyes but felt him glance at her. "It isn't so very expensive and I don't want to go back to the Lutetia."

"But—why remain in the country?" he asked. "The summer will be here soon—in a few weeks almost—and then there will be the risk of malaria and forty other things."

That told her that he definitely glad of it when it comes to checking up the stores. But it will be deadly dull."

"I don't mind what the work is as long as I can do it," answered Shirley. Again she told herself that he was back again in the breezy, companionable mood. Overnight she had toyed with the theory that in some queer way he was jealous of Maurois. But today he seemed to have nothing at the back of his thoughts.

His attitude to her was frank, unembarrassed and wholly unindividual, as it had been ever since that night when he had taken her to the opera. He was treating her easily and comfortably, almost as if she had been another man.

At midday he sent her a message requesting her to join him at his office, where she sat down and copied out lists of stores. Daily after that she left the house with him in the morning and spent long hours in the office in clerical drudgery, often without seeing him until he came to take her home for dinner. Sometimes they would return to the office together after wished to be rid of her. In the circumstances, it was just as well, she supposed. It told her where she stood. She had been afraid that the granting of the decree nisi would involve an immediate discussion of their future. She had been ready to point out that he must consider himself free of any kind of obligation towards her.

"I'm afraid I shall be up-country all the summer," he added. "Living under canvas most of the time, I expect."

"I haven't thought out what I shall do," said Shirley. "But anyhow I shall stay on here for the present."

She told him with her voice that she did not wish for any further discussion on the point. He accepted the hint without displeasure and began to talk breezily of his plans.

"It will take me the better part of a fortnight to get the gang together," he explained. "Then there will be the question of arranging supplies—and in the meantime there will be the old motor lorries to be overhauled. Somehow or other I shall have to squeeze in time to get together the nucleus of a clerical staff. If your offer to help still stands, I shall be dinner and work far into the night. He kept her too busy to think and for that she was thankful.

Before she realized the lapse of time, there came the day when the troops set off up-country. On the following day Alan and his gang were to join them and work under their protection.

That night she helped him with his personal packing and on the following morning went down with him to the local depot where the gang was assembled. The depot was thronged with men and women of the different Balkan nationalities, sitting on their bundles, talking, quarrelling.

"Why have the women come—to say good-bye?" asked Shirley. "No—they're going," he explained. "They're jolly good workers—the men see to that. We've got a hundred and forty, all told, and fifty of them are women. I'm taking half of them today and the other half are coming up tomorrow under a foreman. We have only twenty lorries and that's about as much as we can carry with the stores and equipment."

Place for All Men

The whole course of things goes to teach us faith. We need only obey. There is guidance for each of us, and by lowly, listening we shall hear the right word. Why need you choose so painfully your place and occupation and associates and modes of action and entertainment? Certainly there is a possible place for you that precludes the need of balance and willful election.—Emerson.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XXXIX.

YOU at least suspected that Maurois was a person of importance here—I know that he is the Big Boss and has this rotten little local government in his pocket. I think you used the old technique, Shirley, the technique you learned from your father and tried to apply with your husband—and would have done so if he hadn't been a greedy fool, I daresay. You met Maurois at the right time—and you talked to him in the right way."

"I still don't understand," said Shirley. "I myself told you, in the presence, that Maurois must have helped."

"You heard him refuse my offer of shares in return for his help?"

"But—that is not my fault!" she protested.

"He does not look to me for his reward, Shirley. That man is one of the shrewdest men on earth and I should say one of the most disillusioned. I think he probably knows all there is to know about you and me—he's in touch with Cynaz, for one thing. That man would not stir his little finger without reward—or the hope of reward."

Shirley said nothing. The strength had gone out of her and she was drifting. Alan was right again with the same irrelevant rightness, unanswerable from this own point of view yet never seeing the tiniest glimpse of hers.

Looking backwards she could see nothing but justification for Alan's belief. There was that first ambiguous conversation in Maurois, she could admit now that she the concession in the same breath with the dream-woman and his horrible ideal of loading a woman with possessions. Of course, he had been offering her a bribe then. He knew about Roger and he wanted to get her away from Alan.

She ought to have cut Maurois after that. She had refrained from cutting him because she feared his influence with Stavros. Over the weeks of their subsequent association, he had discovered that she was more difficult than he had believed at first and had changed his tactics by giving her the bribe in advance.

That was Alan's inference. What could she say? In a sense it was true. If she had held out no faintest shadow of a promise to Maurois, she could admit now that she had taken no step to prevent his deceiving himself in regard to her. Bitterness welled up within her. Maurois, the beast of prey, had cheated himself—there was at least a malicious consolation to be derived from that.

"Everything is hopelessly muddled," she said wearily. "I can't hope to explain, Alan."

"There is no need to explain," he answered dispassionately. "I am asking you nothing, accusing you of nothing. There is the conclusion. It only remains for me to thank you."

There came an almost irresistible impulse to laugh and laugh and laugh. "It only remains for me to thank you." She forced herself to play her part in that monstrous farce.

She got up to go to bed. "If there is anything else I can do, let me know," she said dully. "Thanks," he answered. "I shall be glad of your help in clearing up here and getting rid of the house. I'll try and get time tomorrow to see the agent and find out how we stand. Good night, Shirley."

It was by an ironical trick of the Fates that on the very next morning Shirley and Alan should both receive letters informing them that Roger had obtained his decree nisi.

"You're well out of that anyway," said Alan indifferently. "That was perfectly true, thought Shirley, but his indifference was disturbing. He seemed to have dismissed the matter from his mind for he hurried on."

"I shall have to fly over the ground today. I don't know whether I shall have time to see the house agent. I was looking at a letter before I came down and I find we took the place for six months. That means we've got another two months. I suppose we shall be able to get rid of it all right, though."

"I shall keep it on," she said. She avoided his eye but felt him glance at her. "It isn't so very expensive and I don't want to go back to the Latetia."

"But—why remain in the country?" he asked. "The Summer will be here soon—in a few weeks almost—and then there will be the risk of malaria and forty other things."

That told her that he definitely

glad of it when it comes to checking up the stores. But it will be deadly dull."

"I don't mind what the work is as long as I can do it," answered Shirley. Again she told herself that he was back again in the breezy, companionable mood. Overnight she had toyed with the theory that in some queer way he was jealous of Maurois. But today he seemed to have nothing at the back of his thoughts.

His attitude to her was frank, unembarrassed and wholly individual, as it had been ever since that night when he had taken her to the opera. He was treating her easily and comfortably, almost as if she had been another man.

At midday he sent her a message requesting her to join him at his office, where she sat down and copied out lists of stores. Daily after that she left the house with him in the morning and spent long hours in the office in clerical drudgery, often without seeing him until he came to take her home for dinner. Sometimes they would return to the office together after wished to be rid of her. In the circumstances, it was just as well, she supposed. It told her where she stood. She had been afraid that the granting of the decree nisi would involve an immediate discussion of their future. She had been ready to point out that he must consider himself free of any kind of obligation towards her.

"I'm afraid I shall be up-country all the summer," he added. "Living under canvas most of the time, I expect."

"I haven't thought out what I shall do," said Shirley. "But anyhow I shall stay on here for the present." She told him with her voice that she did not wish for any further discussion on the point. He accepted the hint without displeasure and began to talk breezily of his plans.

"It will take me the better part of a fortnight to get the gang together," he explained. "Then there will be the question of arranging supplies—and in the meantime there will be the old motor lorries to be overhauled. Somehow or other I shall have to squeeze in time to get together the nucleus of a clerical staff. If your offer to help still stands, I shall be dinner and work far into the night. He kept her too busy to think and for that she was thankful.

Before she realized the lapse of time, there came the day when the troops set off up-country. On the following day Alan and his gang were to join them and work under their protection.

That night she helped him with his personal packing and on the following morning went down with him to the local depot where the gang was assembled. The depot was thronged with men and women of the different Balkan nationalities, sitting on their bundles, talking, quarrelling.

"Why have the women come—to say good-bye?" asked Shirley. "No—they're going," he explained. "They're jolly good workers—the men see to that. We've got a hundred and forty, all told, and fifty of them are women. I'm taking half of them today and the other half are coming up tomorrow under a foreman. We have only twenty lorries and that's about as much as we can carry with the stores and equipment."

Place for All Men

The whole course of things goes to teach us faith. We need only obey. There is guidance for each of us, and by lowly, listening we shall hear the right word. Why need you choose so painfully your place and occupation and associates and modes of action and entertainment? Certainly there is a possible place for you that precludes the need of balance and wilful election.—Emerson.
